Hertie School of Governance

The Hertie School of Governance prepares exceptional students for leadership positions in government, business, and civil society. Through its PhD Programmes young researchers are equipped to work at the cutting edge of governance and public policy. Experienced professionals also have the opportunity to deepen their skills in the field of public management and public policy through a range of Executive Education offers.

A renowned faculty with expertise in political and social science, economics and law take an interdisciplinary, policy-oriented approach to the school's teaching and research agenda. Students from over 95 nations and a global network of academic partners position the Hertie School as an international centre in the heart of Berlin that actively engages in public debate with its wide range of events bringing together experts from theory and practice. We warmly invite you to read more about the Hertie School and hope to welcome you on our campus in the near future.

Managing Director

Degrees and programmes

The two-year Master of Public Policy (MPP) programme is geared towards students with a Bachelor degree who wish to expand their knowledge in the fields of global or European governance, economic policy, social policy, public management, and democratic governance.

The two-year Master of International Affairs (MIA) programme focuses on international relations and prepares candidates for positions requiring a profound understanding of today's governance challenges in a global multilevel system.

The MPP and MIA programmes include an internship and the opportunity to do a “professional year”. Students can also spend a semester abroad or complete dual degrees at one of the School's partner institutions.

The Hertie School offers the Doctoral Programme in Governance, a three-year structured doctoral programme with a focus on governance and public policy; and contributes to the Berlin Graduate School for Transnational Studies (BTS).

Various options are offered for professionals: The Executive Master of Public Administration (EMPA) is for experienced professionals from the private, public, and non-profit sector, who wish to develop their management and leadership skills. By completing an Executive Training, professionals can expand their management competence in a specific area. Executive MPA participants benefit from several exchange programmes with partner universities as well as very flexible structures.

The Hertie School also offers tailor-made solutions to companies and organisations in the public, private, and civil society sectors.

The Hertie School's degree programmes and executive training formats are taught in English.

About the students

The Hertie School's greatest asset is the quality of its students. Since the establishment of the school we have welcomed students from over 95 countries. Their rich and diverse backgrounds find expression in a host of initiatives, making campus life much more than just a classroom experience.

Hertie School graduates pursue careers around the globe as leaders and experts in the public sector, business, civil society organisations and research.

Faculty and research

The Hertie School produces outstanding, interdisciplinary research in a wide range of policy-relevant fields. The school's faculty members, adjunct and visiting faculty, researchers and doctoral students work on diverse real-world problems, like combatting corruption, regulating the sharing economy, public sector reform, security issues, and the future of the euro.

Hertie School in dialogue

The Hertie School is a platform for vibrant public debate and engaged intellectual discourse among academic experts and policy-makers.

By engaging in public debate, the Hertie School plays a vital role as an ambassador of good governance. Regular lectures, conferences, and discussions are complemented by joint events with the school's partner institutions.

The Hertie School's faculty members are constantly leading studies and research projects that tackle key governance challenges in Germany, Europe and further afield. Their findings are widely discussed in the media, and leaders from the public, private and civil society sectors draw on their expertise. In addition to the annual Governance Report, the Hertie School releases publications and studies on an ongoing basis.

In the Debate section on our website, faculty and researchers discuss key issues of public interest. Read about research and teaching at the Hertie School, and find out more about students, alumni and the fascinating people who visit our campus:
